Grades VIII and IX Will Not Write Exams

Students in Grades VIII and IX will not be required to write departmental exams for June promotion, according to press reports.

Tests will be furnished by the Government, however, for the use of students in those grades whom teachers do not feel justified in promoting on their year's work.

St. Patrick

The following composition on "St. Patrick," was written by Polly B. Tamilin, a Grade VI student and pupil of Miss H. Vancil at Dunree School, Shouldice:

Long, long ago when Ireland was called Erin, there lived a good priest called Patrick. He preached Christianity to the people. Some of the people believed him and became Christians. The king and his people would not believe St. Patrick and tried to kill him. An earthquake came and frightened the priest very much. Then St. Patrick converted the heathens and baptised them, so they broke their idols and brought gifts of silver, gold and precious stones to their leader.

St. Patrick travelled all over Ireland starting schools and churches and teaching the people Christianity. He was always so good that the people thought he should be called St. Patrick.

One time he came to a part of the country where there were many snakes that were bothering the people. He chased them up the mountain and then into the sea. Some people say there are no snakes in Ireland now.

The favorite plant of Ireland now is the shamrock, because St. Patrick used it to explain his teaching about Christ. Now on March 17th people wear a green shamrock in honor of the birthday of St. Patrick, who was the first missionary in Ireland.

They opened up his head and found Excelsior!

Indian Coal Mines May Be Closed Down

The public seems to be unaware that there is a movement on foot to close the Indian mines near Cluny. Therefore it behooves all interested to sign the coal mine petitions that are now being circulated.

This mine has saved the residents of the Bow Valley thousands of dollars and is one of Alberta's natural resources by which this territory benefits.

Home Grown Proteins for Dairy Cows

Experimental Farms Note

The average feeds grown on prairie farms are usually too low in proteins to support economical milk production excepting where sweet clover and alfalfa are grown.

Roughages high in proteins such as sweet clover and alfalfa oat and pea hay, can be grown with good success on most farms. These feeds along with silage and the usual concentrates that can be grown by the average farmer furnish sufficient nutrients for maintenance and milk production for the average cow.

Alfalfa and sweet clover hay each contain from 10 to 12 per cent protein while oat and pea hay contain from 5 to 7 per cent.

The farmer who is concentrating on high milk production.

Marquis Municipality Will Help Farmers Destroy Gophers

At the last meeting of the Marquis Municipality it was decided to supply the farmers, in this municipality, with gopher poison at not over 50c per oz. bottle of strychnine. If the farmers cannot pay cash for the strychnine they can have it charged on their taxes, but as the Council are supplying this poison at such a close price they would much prefer the cash, however, rather than have any farmer unable to protect himself from the gophers, the Council will assist him by allowing it to be charged against his taxes. This poison will be ready for distribution not later than Tuesday of next week and may be secured by making application to the Municipal Clerk, Mr. J. K. McLean, at Milo. This means that all the farmers can avail themselves of the means of exterminating the gopher pest at a low cost, and also if there is land adjoining his farm where the gophers are not poisoned and they prove to be a menace to a growing crop, the farmer can get the poison to exterminate the gophers and have it charged to the owner's taxes. With this means of extermination the farmers of this municipality can get rid of the gopher pest.

Ladies' Guild Meets at the Home of Mrs. M. H. Ward

Mrs. M. H. Ward and Mrs. G. F. Kemper entertained the Ladies' Guild at the home of Mrs. Ward on Thursday, March 16. Devotions were led by Mrs. MacLeod. Reports of special committees were approved. Mrs. Lewendon and Mrs. Board will convene the April Home Cooking sale on April 2. About twenty ladies were served tea by the hostesses.

And Father Agreed

Home study for Tommy had just begun and he found it hard to apply himself to regular hours. At bedtime one evening his father said: "Tommy, I am not at all pleased with the report your mother gives me of your conduct today."
"No, father, I knowd you wouldn't be, and I told her so. But she went right ahead and made th' report. Jest like a woman ain't it?"

School Notes

The regular meeting of the High School Literary Society was held last Friday with the President, Ruby Ward, in the chair. The program consisted of:

Reading—Marjorie Leonard
Accordion Solo—Victoria Barron
Reading—Jean MacLeod
Piano Solo—Ruby Ward
Paper—Jack Clark

The students are doing some intensified studying lately. The applications for writing exams in June have been filled out and the Easter exams will decide whether we will be allowed to write or not.

Whist Drive and Dance

There will be a card party and dance at the Buffalo School on Wednesday, March 23rd under the auspices of Sunset Valley U.F.A. Everybody welcome. Cards 10c, dancing 25c. Keep this date open for a good time.

Around the Tee

Button Game

Last Friday night Saunders and the ladies defended the buttons against the four boys who were some of the younger members of the curling club and skipped by a regular skip.

The opening end gave the boys one and the defenders countered with one on the second end. Then the boys came back strong scoring four in the third end, and also another in the fourth end, making the score 6-1. The boys now were feeling pretty good and figured on walking out of the rink with the buttons. The defenders figuring there was something wrong with the way the game was going, notched another in the fifth end. The boys feeling the game was not yet over came back strong to count another in the sixth end. The defenders, not yet tired carrying around the buttons, scored in the seventh end, and threw a jolt into the boys by scoring four in the eighth end making the score 7-8 in favor of the defenders. This brought the boys back to realize they were slipping and they countered with two more points. The defenders once more getting serious, tied the score in the tenth end which resulted in having to play an extra end to decide the game.

The defenders scored one in the eleventh end to win the game and retain the Buttons.

The following is the score for this game as marked in the rink.

Mourning days for Edison are scarcely over and the world is again called upon to pay its farewell tribute to another of its greatest citizens. For another American has outgrown the limits of the national boundaries and whenever there is a bandsman there is mourning. Britain too has added her appreciative tributes with those who have honored the great master.

Few men are privileged so many years of service and so productive a career. Beginning at 13 years of age he played with his father in the Marine Band where later he was to take the first step to world leadership. And on the evening of his death he conducted a rehearsal in Reading, Pennsylvania. One can scarcely help thinking of the veteran Verdi, his long career and his great work, Aida, appearing when he was 80 years old. Out of those years comes two factors so common in famous lives, a rare ability shown during his teens and stupendous usefulness of later years. Sousa was 73 when he made his last trans-continental tour which took 10 months and necessitated 38,000 miles of travel. And during all those years, his one aim was to interest people in better music.

It was a splendid tribute that Wick Ford paid his old master. Our single recollection of our Alberta trombonist was a band concert in Central Park, Calgary. He had just returned from his tour with Sousa. Ford stepped to the front of the old bandstand which once stood at the western end of the park and played an old masterpiece accompanied by the whole band. And we have always felt that Calgary lost heavily in the destruction of that old stand with its many happy associations. Art in any of its forms is to be encouraged and appreciated and granted that a new structure of some kind was needed yet it is hard to see how the present occupant of the site will ever serve Calgarians, of the present or any other generation, as well as the bandstand.

And the life of Sousa is a constant criticism of our Canadian musical standards. In 1877 he joined Offenbach's orchestra in which he played first violin. The composer of "Tales of Hoffman" was then a world's figure. But Sousa left the violin and went back to the brass and reeds. A few years ago a teacher of music who had gone to Europe and studied under the best violinist, there, came back to America and opened up a studio for teaching mandolin. Granted that the violin is "king of instruments," yet even a king must have subjects if there is to be a kingdom. And the people of Canada must learn that the only musical instruments are not the violin and piano. From other nations we have gleaned a wonderful musical inheritance and the band offers of the best opportunities for its development.

The passing of Sousa has recalled many anecdotes from bandsmen. In a western band was a young negro who played the piccolo. It was the habit of the bandmaster to invite to his homes those who wished a little extra practice. They had just received one of Sousa's marches. The young lad did not have a lyre for his piccolo and had pinned his music in the corner of the room. One by one each was trying his part. Then the master came to Billy. He went through his part in good form and was asked to repeat it but half way through it the second time he burst out laughing. He had not been playing his instrument as he pretended but had whistled. And when we have forgotten who invented the radio or gave us the lamp that lights our streets and homes, we will be playing Sousa's marches and enjoying them.

GRANT FLEMING, M.D. — ASSOCIATE SECRETARY

Stop and Think

Health is a precious possession, but it is one which most people do not appreciate until they are threatened with its loss. We seldom consider just how much good health means to us. We rather take good health for granted, and seldom make any real effort to improve it or keep it until we are faced with losing it.

It is not desirable to spend all our time thinking about health. We know what a nuisance the health crank is, and how irritating is the person who always wants to tell us about his pains and aches. It is, however, equally foolish to ignore health entirely, and disregard symptoms of abnormal conditions of the body.

What we should strive for is the happy medium which avoids extremes. Health should receive a reasonable amount of attention and consideration. Without becoming food faddists, it is well for us to put into practice certain principles with regard to what we eat.

We are practically unaware of our body functions as long as they go on normally. We should realize, therefore, that when discomfort is felt or where there are signs of unusual occurrences, while there is no need for alarm, still it is foolish to disregard them. The body has considerable reserve strength and ability to adjust itself to changing conditions, but it is a mistake to call upon reserves unless this is necessary. It is much better to help than to exhaust Nature.

It is surprising how many people will go on, day after day, ignoring conditions which clearly indicate that there is something wrong, that nature requires assistance. Persistent coughs are overlooked, progressive loss of weight is not given attention, unusual fatigue is not investigated, and thus it is that many cases first present themselves to their doctor with well advanced tuberculosis.

There is always some cause for what is called indigestion. If this persists or recurs, it means that whatever condition is responsible continues to be present. Lumps do not occur in the normal female breast; unusual discharges do not come from the normal body; ordinary sores heal and do not break down again.

It is because such happenings as these do not receive prompt attention that cancer is allowed to develop beyond the stage at which it can be cured. While they are not always signs of cancer, still the patient cannot tell whether they are or not. There is only one safe way to act, and that is to find out from the doctor in every case, what is the true nature of the condition.

Reasonable attention is required if health is to be preserved. If treatment is to be secured when it can do the most good, attention must be given to any signs or symptoms of abnormal conditions.

Here and There

Figures of United States motor cars entering New Brunswick in 1931, issued by the provincial bureau of information and tourist travel, show an 8 per cent. gain over 1930. The new record for 1931 is 58,583 as compared with the former record of 54,068 for 1930.

Approximately $11,000,000 was saved in Canada last year in the cost of construction dwellings and other buildings in 61 cities owing to reduced cost of building materials. Aggregate value in these cities of building permits was $110,971,410.

The aid of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London and of Lord Beaverbrook will be sought by the Maritime Provinces representatives who left aboard S.S. Montcalm from Halifax recently, in an effort to secure the lifting of the British Government's embargo on Canadian potatoes.

A railroad career that has seen many changes and covered much widely separated territory witnessed another movement when Robert E. Larmour, general freight agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, was transferred recently from Montreal to Toronto. Mr. Larmour, aside from his railway duties, is well known as one of Canada's outstanding yachtsmen.

Carnival Queen nominations from Edmonton, Drumheller and Vancouver testify to the great popularity of the Banff annual winter carnival to be held February 6 to 13. The Alberta branch of the A.A.U. of Canada has agreed to hold figure skating championships at the carnival and may hold their ski-ing championships there as well. Every kind of winter sport will be represented.

Entries are coming in rapidly for the great winter event of the 1932 sporting season, the 11th annual Eastern International Dog Sled Derby to be run over a course of 123 miles, spread over the three days February 22-24 and concluding with the Dog Derby Costume Ball at the Chateau Frontenac, February 24. St. Godard, Seppala and other names outstanding in Dog Sled racing are already entered.

John Deere-Van Brunt
Pony Press Grain Drill
Furnished with Pulverizer-Packer
—or Tongue Truck

Here is the new John Deere-Van Brunt seeding outfit that is making it possible for one man to do a once-over job of plowing, pulverizing, seeding and covering. It is built to do a good seeding job while working directly behind your John Deere three-bottom tractor plow.

The complete outfit consists of the well-known John Deere-Van Brunt Low Down Press Drill and a special pulverizer-packer attachment which runs ahead of the drill, crushing the lumps and removing air spaces just before the seed is deposited.

The pulverizer-packer attachment takes the place of the regular tongue truck on the John Deere-Van Brunt Pony Press Drill. It is either furnished as an extra, or as a part of the complete machine.

You can turn short corners with this outfit; pulverizer and drill always follow plow. There is very little side-draft and no added weight on the plow beams as hitch is made direct to plow hitch instead of to main body of plow. The drill is controlled from the seat of the tractor; the gear throw-out attachment permits the driver to throw the drill in or out of gear by simply pulling the rope attached to it.

The drill is built strong, to give long, dependable service. Has the same Adjustable Patented Gate Force Feeds and other features which identify John Deere-Van Brunt drills and insure satisfaction to the user.

We recommend this outfit when it is advisable to plow and seed at the same time.

Concert and Dance at Union Jack School

The concert put on at the Union Jack School last Friday night was very well attended and the program was enjoyed by all present. A silver collection was taken in aid of the Vulcan Hospital. After the concert a number remained for a dance which continued till 3.30 a.m. Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy and Mr. W. Spears furnished the music.

TAKE LIFE AS IT COMES

Don't look for the flaws as you go through life;
And even when you find them,
It is wise and kind to be somewhat blind
And look for the virtues behind them.
For the cloudiest night has a hint of light
Somewhere in its shadows hiding;
It is better far to hunt for a star
Than the spots on the sun abiding.
The current of life runs ever away
To the bosom of God's great ocean.
Don't set your force 'gainst the river's course
And think to alter its motion.
Don't waste a curse on the universe
Remember, it lived before you.
Don't butt at a storm with your puny form—
But bend and let it go o'er you.
The world will never adjust itself
To suit your whims to the letter
Some things must go wrong your whole life long,
And the sooner you know it the better.
It is folly to fight with the Infinite.
And go under at last in the wrestle.
The wiser man shapes into God's plan
As the water shapes into the vessel.

"Clubbing a Husband"

Following is an outline of the story:

The visit of Mrs. Henrietta Ashton of Vancouver and her big-little daughter Maud to her newly-married sister, Mrs. Blanche Newman, of a small village, being opportunely timed with the very first appearance of discord in the brides wedded bliss, threatens to work disaster in all the domestic affairs of the neighborhood. Ten different women air their troubles, and at the instigation of Mrs. Ashton, with her suffragette theories, decide to club together under the independent slogan "Down with the men!" Mrs. Newman's colored cook and her Irish wash-lady, Bridget O'Flanagan, contributes their share to the general disturbance, and Dr. Jordan the "doctor-lady," is most emphatic in her declaration of feminine independence. Meeting at the office of Dr. Jordan for the final organization, however, the rumor of one husband's sudden illness strikes terror to every one, who beneath the surface is really loyal to the earlier ideas of wifehood and motherhood; while two letters, one commanding Mrs. Ashton's immediate return to her husband, and the other proposing marriage to the man-hating Dr. Jordan breaks up the whole affair in

PIONEERS MEET AFTER HALF CENTURY

Half a century is a long way to look back and when Charlie Shaw (right) met Tom Wilson in the grounds of the Banff Springs Hotel last autumn, it was an occasion for both of them. Tom is a well-known character at the famous Rocky Mountain resort. He is the sole survivor of the Canadian Pacific's first exploration party of 1881, and was the first white man to see Lake Louise. Shaw, who makes his home in Keremes, B.C., is the sole survivor of the survey party under C. E. Perry, C.E., which located the line across the Alberta prairies. The only time in their lives they met was in 1883, when Tom was under Major A. B. Rogers Pais named and Charlie was with Sir Sanford Fleming's memorable expedition through the Kicking Horse Pass. What this gallant pair of veterans must have had to say to each other when they renewed their acquaintance! From the days when they toiled over mountain and plain, blazing the way for the great steel girdle which now binds the provinces of the Dominion together, down to the present day, is history. Their cheery determination has been, and is, reflected in the story of the world's greatest transportation system. The mantle of responsibility has passed from Mountstephen to Van Horne and from Shaughnessy to the broad shoulders of E.V. Beatty, chairman and president of the system. Many progressive improvements have been made. But the spirit which sent Tom and Charlie across hundreds of miles of unexplored territory remains unchanged, for the excellent reason that none better can be found.

Home Grown Potatoes for Dairy Cows

and individual records may find it necessary to supplement the home grown feed with high protein concentrates such as linseed meal, gluten meal, or bran.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Morden, a mixture of oat and peas is grown as a concentrate. Sufficient peas is mixed with the oats at seeding time to ensure a yield of 6 to 8 bushels of peas per acre in the mixture at harvesting.

A herd of high producing Ayrshires is kept and feeds other than linseed meal and bran are all grown on the station. Linseed meal is fed to high producing cows only because of its richness in proteins but also for its laxative and conditioning effect in keeping cows thrifty and vigorous.

At the present time the station herd is being fed roughage consisting of alfalfa hay, silage and a few roots, while a mixture of oats and pea and barley chop, supplemented by linseed meal and bran is fed as a concentrate. The low cost of the later two concentrates makes feedings of these quite economical at this time.

Farmers feeding for high production must at all times take into consideration the cost of various feeds. Even though a feed is rich in digestible proteins the cost may not permit of it being fed economically.

Satisfactory results have resulted from the above feeds as shown by the herd average for 1931 which was 10,397 pounds of milk containing 4.37 per cent butter fat.

ECONOMY

Panther Piston Rings offer a new economy in replacement rings to those who want performance with low cost. For years Simplex has built the best in piston rings—the Simplex Ring. From its introduction it won thousands of shops to a better performing and a more economical method of conditioning motors.

And now the Panther Ring—a fitting companion—has assured the leadership among replacement rings. Designed by Simplex engineers—accurately machined by Simplex workmen—protected by Simplex patents—it takes its rightful place in the lower priced field—first in "economy performance." Now for the first time—you can buy a slotted ring and expander for 90 cents.

Vol. 1, No. 31 Arrowwood, Mar. 17, 1932 Items for Thought

It Surely Is On the Way

Daily we are becoming more convinced that a better feeling is prevailing the very atmosphere. From our continuous travelling through the Arrowwood district the one thing that is generally heard from the people that we meet is, "To tell you the truth I believe we are going to have a good year." If this spirit continues, it will become too strong to be resisted. Again we say—"Let's Go!"

Autolene's Vulcan's and Motorene's lubricating oils are of the highest quality to suit your tractor under the severest kind of working conditions, and priced at a figure that will suit the bargain buyer.

Our Autolene Motor Oil is one of the highest quality, highly recommended where best and careful lubrication is to be considered. For quality and service demanded in motor protection. Autolene Motor Oils, the life saver of gasoline engines stand second to none.

Vulcan Motor Oil, a new British American product is refined to meet pressure feed lubrication systems found in the largest per cent of tractors today.

We have only a limited supply of motorene motor oil. While this oil meets the high standard required of B. A. products, it is especially adapted to splash and lubricator systems of motor lubrication

Don't forget that we are still headquarters for that ever popular "Tractor Fuel" or "Distillate". We are proud to have a product in this fuel that works successfully in the most "ticklish" tractors.

With the approaching spring we may expect a raise in price on this product and a government tax if added, will raise the price considerable. It is our belief that you can never expect to buy your fuel any cheaper, and suggest that you place your orders early before the raise comes.
